Mr. R. O. Sligh has opened a grocery store in lower Main street. He occupies the front of the store room of J. M. Swindler's repair shop. Mr. Sligh is an energetic young man and will make a success in his line.

Tact and patience by Sheriff Cannon G. Blease has resulted in the largest collection of delinquent taxes ever known in the county, and without a single sale of property. There were 435 executions amounting to $4,783.47, all of which has been collected and turned over to the treasurer.

A number of Newberrians attended the funeral of Mr. J. L. Wise at Prosperity on Monday afternoon. Mr. Wise had many friends in Newberry who regret his death and will sympathize with the bereaved family. The editor of The Herald and News regrets that he could not get away from the office to attend the funeral.

Jane Floyd of Floyd township died Sunday at the home of her son, Frank Floyd. She was about 100 years of age and an ex-slave, having belonged to the grandfather of Mr. L. W. Floyd of the city. Like most ex-slaves, she followed the example and teachings of the old Southern darkies and was honored and respected by all who knew her.

The six-year old son of William Davis, colored, was run over Saturday afternoon at P. E. Way's drug store by an unknown motorcyclist and considerably bruised up. He is in bed and being attended by Dr. J. K. Gilder. It is said by one who saw the accident that the motorcyclist had cut off the power from his machine in turning the corner and that the accident was unavoidable.

Bun Moore, charged and surcharged with the spirit of war, met Lucinda Turner and decided to test her preparedness. Not being game enough to strike her with his fists, he called in the assistance of A. B. Bat, better known as A Brick Bat. Before he threw it, however, she hastily notified him that she preferred a court of arbitration. Magistrate Player's court decided that Bun Moore could bunk in the house of detention unless he paid a fine of $3. He paid.

The roads in most places are good now, but in those places where they have been worked recently they will be exceptionally bad when it rains. The split log drag is the best remedy for roads that are easily cut. Spring and summer are the seasons for extensive road building and fall and winter for light work and a liberal use of the drag. On account of the winter rain the least loose dirt thrown into the road in the fall, the better for the roads.

Death of Mrs. Sarah E. Cromer.

Mrs. Sarah E. Cromer, whose maiden name was Moore, was born near Pomaria, May 5, 1842, and died October 31, 1915, at Edenton, N. C., aged 73 years, 5 months and 25 days. Her only surviving sister is Mrs. Ellen Derrick of Leesville, S. C. Her body was brought back to Pomaria and buried Thursday, November 4, in the Adams graveyard, by the side of her husband, who died about 35 years ago. Her four children, Mrs. Minnie E. Cargill of Piedmont, Mr. T. H. Cromer of Edenton, N. C., Mr. J. S. Cromer of Spartanburg and Mrs. Geo. E. Cromer of Lenett, Ala., were all present. The services were conducted by Rev. S. C. Ballentine.

Mt. Olive Church.

The meeting at Mt. Olive church closed having the best order there that they have had there for years. They had fine preaching and good advice given them by Dr. King, who plainly tells the people what is right and wrong. His meetings have been largely attended by both white and colored, who speak in the highest terms of him as a leader. He has been a great help for good among the people of Newberry county. Several papers speak of his good work wherever he goes. Rev. F. E. Dibble (white) of the Methodist Episcopal South, preached a sermon that will never be forgotten by the people. It was appreciated by all and they want him to come again. The colored people is blessed to have a man like King to preach and speak to them. He is for the right good order, good citizens and peaceable community.

County Medical Society.

There will be regular meeting of the Newberry County Medical society in Dr. Pelham's office Friday afternoon, November 12, at 2:45. Dr. J. M. Sease will read a paper. All physicians of the county are invited to attend.

Jno. B. Setzler, Sec.

"A Rose Dream."

The next attraction by local talent will be the fairy operetta "A Rose Dream," given by a number of small children. Mrs. J. H. Harms is helping to train the children. To all who have seen Mrs. Harms' work with children this is sufficient guarantee that the play will be well worth seeing. The proceeds will go to the Newberry college library. The date will be announced later.

REV. W. L. SEABROOK

Has Recently Been Elected State's Attorney For His Home County.

The many friends of the Rev. W. L. Seabrook in Newberry will be pleased to hear good news of him and his work. He was for several years pastor of the Lutheran church of the Redeemer in Newberry and also president of the Lutheran synod which is holding its annual convention in Newberry this week. He took an active and intelligent interest in all matters pertaining to the work of the church and the up-building and betterment of the community, and is one of the strongest and best preachers in the Lutheran church.

Before entering the ministry he was a lawyer and at one time assistant attorney general of the State of Maryland. He is now going back to his first love, but at the same time will continue his connection with the church and serve a congregation that is so situated that it can not go into a pastorate.

The editor of The Herald and News personally is very much pleased to learn of his success and we feel sure that there are many other friends in Newberry who will also be pleased to hear of it.

For six years he has been doing double duty to church and state, as pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, six miles from Westminster, Md., preaching every Sunday morning and discharging other pastoral duties faithfully; and court clerk constantly at his post during office hours. His clerkship expires December 1st. He was appointed to it six years ago, not as a political appointment, but as a business proposition. Many expected him this year to run for the office of clerk of the circuit court. He says he preferred the state's attorney's office, and went into the primary fight, with the whole Republican organization against him, and one of the chief arguments against him was his long residence in the South and the fact that he was "not as good a Republican" as his opponent in the primary. He made the primary fight and won with a majority of 299.

Then came the November fight against the Democratic nominee, in a county with a registered Democratic majority of 479. In the general election on November 2 he won with a vote of 4,042 to his opponent's 3,002, a majority of 1,040, leading the whole ticket, with 400 majority more than the next highest man, Democrat and Republican. This gives some idea of the victory and it is gratifying to the many friends of Mr. Seabrook that he has come back into his own at the bar and in the county, just where he was when he gave up his practice years ago to serve the church.

Mr. Seabrook expects to practice law generally in connection with the state's attorneyship, which carries a salary of $2,000, with more than enough fees attached to meet office rent, etc.

At the same time he will not give up his church work, but will have more time to give his people as their pastor and will serve them as long as they desire his services. His church, with a membership of nearly 100, is so located that it can not be put in a pastorate with any other, and until he came to it eight years ago had had no pastor for seven years.

Mr. Seabrook is the first Republican ever elected state's attorney of the county, and his majority is the largest ever given to any man in the county of any party for any office.
